The Answer Is No

TELEVISION certainly is flushing a lot of distinguished people out of the saloons and in front of the cameras. The latest is Moss Hart, a brilliant enough shoemaker in his own field, who has in this case filed his last.

The Hart show is called "Answer Yes or No" (WNBT 9:30 p.m. Sundays) and, as you readily can perceive from that title, Mr. Hart's gifts are not strained to the breaking point.

Surrounded by a host of other celebrated people, who must wonder from time to time what the devil they're doing there, Mr. Hart goes through the gestures of a master of ceremonies in a sort of parlor game. He presents, say, Dennis King with a "delicate dilemma" and he wants yes or no for an answer. The dilemma: Suppose you were expecting your wife back from California at any second when this blond dish rings your bell and asks could she come in and use the phone, for a minute. Would you let her in or wouldn't you?

MR. KING furrows his brow and bends his faculties to this grave problem. Meanwhile, the panel, which last Sunday was comprised of Marsha Hunt, Arlene Francis, Carson Kamin and his wife, Ruth Gordon, make their own guesses as to what the decision will be.

They struggle with it awhile, some of them using the ethical approach, others the pragmatic, still others the Dorothy Dix or Mountain-Out-of-a-Molehill gambit.

Then Mr. King takes his stand.
