HOLLYWOOD. You hear it almost every Skelton TV show—that familiar, "Sam—Oh Sam!" and with this line the audience breaks into hilarious laughter. The running gag started when Red was using a dummy camera for a comedy sketch in which the camera was to blow up. When the camera didn't disintegrate on the show, Red laughingly put the blame on Sam. Ever since then, when a property gag doesn't pay off, Sam gets billing on the show. Actually, Sam is Sam Matinella, NBC property and special effects man who has been with the Skelton TV show since its beginning on the network. Sam's experience as a professional practice.

The program is the third recent attempt at a visual concert that will be tuned in for its music rather than the video effects. These programs are outside the occasional relays of concerts by the NBC symphony under Arturo Toscanini, who is returning to his radio series on March 9 for his concluding set of four pro-grams for the season.

One concert program, the TV Recital Hall, now on Saturday afternoons, NBC-TV, uses guest talent and has won considerable Romania Escapees in which the programs are presented.

Stiff Penalties Due for U.S. Tax Rebels

WASHINGTON, March 15. | ago by refusing to collect with-(UP) The Treasury Department had news today for that lady working for the Treasury and editor in Summit, Miss., who says she won't pay her social security taxes. Revenue agents are headed her way. Mrs. Mary D. Cain, editor of the weekly Summit Sun, wrote an open letter to Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder the other day denouncing social security as illegal and immoral. She said she could take care of her own old age-when it Snyder could do his own tax collecting.

Snyder had to take her to court, but he got his taxes. And Miss Kellems collects them for him now. She wasn't fined or sent to jail because she wasn't trying to evade payment.

Treasury spokesmen said

Mrs. Cain may not be so lucky if she insists on challenging the tax law.

The bureau said "several" persons besides Mrs. Cain have persons besides ints. Cain have refused to pay the social se-curity taxes. It would not identify them, but they're in the same boat with the flery lady from Summit, who wound up her open letter like this: "I've had enough of the New Deal. I'm sick of the whole Truman administration. Pop your whip, Mr. Snyder, I am ready.

Treasury spokesmen noted that the law carries pretty stiff penalties for taxpayers of either sex who refuse to pay their social security taxes.
